

Construction Overview

The UK is perhaps currently experiencing its greatest period of growth in terms of construction. With Government focus on traffic alleviation, new road builds, housing and developments, the demand for staff in this sector is consistently growing. NCS has numerous years' experience in undertaking a range of construction projects including demanding a wide cross section of skills such as engineers, foreman, scaffolders, bricklayers, joiners, steelfixers, plant operators and ground workers.

All these people hold CSCS and CPCS allowing them to utilise specialised plant and machinery safely and legally. Where there is a skills shortage, NCS facilitates assessments for their staff to undertake additional plant training to meet the needs of its customers.
